56% of consumers spend more than the initial value of their gift card*

The Solution:

The First Data Gift Card solution is an effective and versatile tool that provides results for merchants of virtually any size and business type. It is also very easy for both employees and the business owner to manage, track and reconcile.

Here's How It Works:

Gift Cards are attractive to both consumers and merchants for different reasons. Consumers consistently rate gift cards very highly in terms on satisfaction. Merchants find that the solution's versatility, ease of use and the results derived are well worth the investment.

Gift cards can be displayed in-store or be used as a promotional tool to generate awareness and drive traffic—offer them to local businesses, to a local radio or TV station as an instant giveaway, or at events. Gift cards can also be given to an unhappy customer giving you a second chance to make a good impression. They can also be used as a way to issue a store return credit, thus ensuring that the money will be spent in your store at a later date.

Help Your Business:

- Gift Cards give you more control and help reduce fraud compared to paper gift certificates as cards are not valid until activated through your terminal
- Use your Gift Cards in various creative ways to attract customers—attractive displays, special in-store promotions, as a promotional tool at events or for local businesses, and more
- It's easy to sign up and get started with minimal upfront investment

Help Your Customers:

- Customers love Gift Cards because they make gift giving easier
- Gift Cards are appealing and memorable to the gift recipient
- Purchasers and receivers rate their overall satisfaction with Gift Cards as a 9 on a scale of 1-10, with 10 being "extremely satisfied".*
